Trauma Informed Yoga Class

Trauma Conscious Yoga is a combination of active asanas, pranayama, and deep relaxation to assist in mitigating the fight-or-flight response that many trauma survivors experience. This style of yoga can bring an awareness and connection back to the physical body in a pace that is most comfortable for the student. The intention and focus of this class is to empower the student in their own ability to self-regulate, calm the nervous system and begin to connect back to their physical, emotional and mental well-being.

From the President's Desk

Spring is almost here folks! Not that we have had much of a cold and snowy winter, but the thought of consistently warmer weather, flowers in bloom and longer days right around the corner really lends hope to the days ahead!

Speaking of hope...our annual Hearts of Hope breakfast held at the Fox Hill Inn was our most successful ever as you will read in this newsletter. Our heartfelt thanks and congratulations to former board members Barbara Cottingham and Lynne Philips who were honored as this year's recipients of our Service Above Self award. They both certainly exemplify the spirit of this award in all they have, and continue to do on behalf of the Women's Center. Very special thanks to our Breakfast Chair, Felicia Paduano and members of the committee and to John Royce and his staff for all their efforts on this very special event!

We are thrilled to welcome Bill Montero as our new Director of Finance. Bill comes to the Center with over 25 years of accounting and finance management experience and is already proving to be a wonderful addition to our management team!

Despite a great deal of uncertainty surrounding the fiscal climate on both the state and national level, we remain hopeful that the critical and specialized services we provide will be held harmless for the inevitable cuts that are being proposed. We are so grateful to each and every one of you who acknowledge the significant need that exists right here in our own communities and lend your support. It is this benevolence that has and continues to reinforce our belief that together, we can make a difference in peoples' lives and sustains our mission of "working to end the violence."

I look forward to seeing you at our gala "An Evening Together" on Friday, April 7th at the Amber Room where we will honor our law enforcement partners from each of our towns and Western Connecticut State University.

In gratitude and peace,

Pat Zachman, M.Ed.
President & CEO

Denim Day, April 26

Denim Day was originally triggered by a ruling by the Italian Supreme Court where a rape conviction was overturned because the justices felt that since the victim was wearing tight jeans she must have helped her rapist remove them, thereby implying consent. The following day, the women in the Italian Parliament came to work wearing jeans in solidarity with the victim.

Since then, wearing jeans on Denim Day has become a symbol of protest against erroneous and destructive attitudes about sexual assault. Please join us on April 26 in making a social statement by wearing jeans as a visible means of protest against the misconceptions that surround sexual assault. This day and activism provides a great opportunity to start discussions about consent and what consent really is: on-going, enthusiastic, verbally and willingly given! We encourage you to stop by the Women's Center to pick up stickers with the saying, "Ask me why I'm wearing denim" that you can wear on Denim Day to further spark discussion. If you cannot stop by, please email ann.rl@wcogd.org with your address and we will mail you stickers to wear.

#SurvivorLoveLetters, happening all of April!

The intent behind this campaign is to gather letters, notes, and words of encouragement from across the internet supporting survivors of sexual violence. It is designed to promote self-love and challenge rape culture. We at the Women's Center were inspired by this campaign to start collecting letters to display in the lobby of our office for survivors to read and take with them. We want all who walk into our agency to feel welcomed, supported, and reminded that they are loved.

So please, join us in spreading love and supporting survivors by writing your own letters! Be sure not to include any identifying information about yourself when you sign the letter (you can put your first name only if you feel comfortable), or otherwise sign the letter with a generic phrase like "Community Member" or "Someone." Once you have written your note, either drop off or mail in your letters to: Women's Center Attn: Johanna DeBari 2 West Street, Danbury, CT 06810. If you have any question about the submission process, please contact Johanna DeBari at johanna.d@wcogd.org or 203-731-5200 ext. 251.

Where Do You Stand?

Bystander Intervention Trainings for Males

Are you wondering how you can stop sexual violence and make a difference in your community? As part of Sexual Assault Awareness Month, the Women's Center is looking for groups of males to participate in our Where Do You Stand? bystander intervention training.

This training aims to empower males to use their voice, actions, and influence to become part of the solution to end sexual violence. During the training, participants will discuss real-life situations and build a toolbox of techniques and strategies to intervene and address such situations. Please consider inviting the Women's Center in to offer this program at your community group or organization! Contact annr.rl@wcogd.org for more details.

Welcome Finance Director, Bill Montero

We are so grateful to all who attended our 9th Annual Hearts of Hope Breakfast. Due to your generosity and support, we raised over $32,000 to help fund our education and support services.

This year's wonderful presentation by our Education Department team informed our guests about the many free programs offered to audiences of all ages throughout our 13-town service area. People especially loved meeting our puppet educators, Lucy and Sebastian!

Honored during the breakfast for their ongoing commitment to our mission were this year's recipients of our Service Above Self Award -- former Board members, Barbara Cottingham and Lynne Philips.

Barb served on our Board from 2010 to 2016, during which time she rebranded and redesigned our identity. She maintains an active studio to support her design, illustration and portrait business. Currently she works as the Art Production Manager for the Taunton Press. Lynne served on our Board from 2009 to 2012. She is most proud of the work she did with the committee on rebranding and for helping to find sufficient funding for our staff at our Residential Facility to work 24 hours a day. She also designed the SafeWalk logo! Currently, Lynne is the Manager for Book Layout and Production at the Taunton Press.

Both Barb and Lynne are the perfect examples of how our Board of Directors is a "working Board," committing their time, ideas, energy, and focus to the Women's Center. Even after their numerous years on our Board of Directors, they still are active volunteers, assisting us every year with graphic design work for our annual Breakfast, Gala and SafeWalk. We thank them for their Service Above Self!

We would also like to thank John Royce for donating the venue, and the staff of the Fox Hill Inn for donating their time and service. Our Breakfast Chair, Felicia Paduano and members of the Breakfast Committee made the event a success.

Collaboration Between Cultural Alliance and the Women's Center

The Cultural Alliance of Western Connecticut (CAWC) is inviting art entries for "End Works 2017," a new initiative in collaboration with the Women's Center.

The project seeks statements about domestic violence and sexual assault in two-dimensional media to be exhibited in CAWC's Accessible Art series. Selected works will be auctioned at our Gala on Friday, April 7th.

"Art has the ability to give voice to and increase awareness of domestic violence and sexual assault," said CAWC Executive Director Lisa Scails. "The goal of this collaboration is to provide an opportunity for artists to show work that will engage and move the community forward in a meaningful discussion. We anticipate a spectrum of responses that will illuminate the truth about these issues, raise questions, and give hope."

"End Works 2017" is inspired by the Women's Center vision to end the violence against women, men and children, to foster equality and empowerment for all. The project is open to artists 18 years old and up based in Connecticut.

If you are interested in more information about this initiative, visit the Cultural Alliance End Works Project site here.

"We are excited to be a part of this project which will offer yet another means of expressing the reality of domestic violence and sexual assault in a unique and creative manner," said Pat Zachman, President and CEO of the Women's Center.
